Ministry & Personnel Council

The Ministry and Personnel Council handles all matters related to human resources at Fairlawn Avenue United Church.

It works “to ensure that healthy relationships exist between staff, and between staff and members of the congregation,” according to its chair, Jennifer Arp.

The Ministry and Personnel Council is the only mandatory committee of the governing body of a congregation within the United Church of Canada. Aside from overseeing the relationship of staff to each other and to members of the congregation, the Council is responsible for reviewing human resources policies and procedures, conducting the annual performance and salary review of staff, and revising their job descriptions as needed.
